THE TELEGRAPH IN JOUTH AUSTRALIA.

There are at present 1,113% miles of telegraphic line open in South Australia, which represent 1,642% miles of wire. The Australian triff is considerably less than those generally adopted in England and the Continent of Europa. The advantages of the system may be understood from the statistical facts that whereas last year in South Australia the ratio of the number of telegrams sent to the number of letters transmitted through the post was one telegram for every thirty-two letters and in England one telegram for every the for every 121 letters. In the first mentioned country there were on an average three telegraphic messages sent for every four of the population, while one telegram for every seven persons constituted the ratio in England. It has been proposed that the Post Office and the telegraphic system be amalgamated as projected in this country; and it has been saggested, with a view to accomplish this result, that the postmasters should reinit in postage stamps the cost of the messages forwarded, which could be cashed at the Post Office and there have been few interruptions and carcely any casualities. Of the thirty-nine interruptions recorded twenty were attributable to storms, nine arose from detects in the working and six from absolute carciessness. Great inconvenience and expense were also incurred from the wilful destruction ine arose from detects in the working and six from basilute carclessness. Great inconvenience and exense were also incurred from the wilful destruction f insulators. The results of the year 1867 were satisactory in a financial point of view. The revenue mounted to £12,458, which represented an increase £175 over the receipts of the preceding year, here was, however, a loss of £610, caused by excess f working expenses over revenue in certain parts, the expenditure on new lines was £5,125.

This tract of land forms part of the Morris estate and has been in the possession of the Morris family for nearly 200 years. Its advantages of situation cannot be overstated.

It is now proposed to piace this section of Westchester county under the direction of the Central Park Commissioners, and the advantages to grow out of that circumstance are incalculable, as the Central agence Grand Boulevard will run through the property. The communication with the lower portion of New York city is by means of railroads now in operation, which makes these lots as desirable and convenient as Murray Hill is at the present time.

It is now proposed to place this section of Westchester county under the direction of the Central Park Commissioners, and the advantages to grow out of that circumstance are incalculable, as the Central avenue Grand Boulevard will run through the property. The communication with the lower portion of New York city is by means of railroads now in operation, which make these lots as desirable and convenient as Murray Hill is at the presen time.
